

Three Killed In Chicago Gun Battle Early This Morning

Burglars Run Into Squad of Police When They Are Frustrated.

POLICEMAN IS DEAD

Two Robbers Die From Wounds and One Escapes.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(P)—Two robbers and a detective were killed here today, when the robbers ran from an apartment house which they were attempting to rob, ran into a squad of police who had been called to answer the burglary report.

Three robbers were busy working on a wall safe when the police rode up in front of the house. Hearing the police they attempted to make an escape, but were cut off from the front by police. One robber ran to the rear window where he was not by Jerry Murphy, of the police force, they exchanged a number of shots and Murphy dropped fatally wounded. The robber ran to the front window but was met by the fire from a squad of the police force.

Sgt. O'Miley, heading a second police squad, climbed in through the front window and found one robber dead and another dying. The bandit killed from the gun fire of officers was identified as Sam Holloman. Another robber who was found with five wounds in his body was carried to the hospital, and was identified as S. Walker. He died a few minutes after reaching the institution. The third robber, who he ran to a hallway in the house where he hid from police. He gave his name to police officials as Samuel Waterman.

Bridges Washed Out By High Water

Water Covers Highways
In Independence
County.

LITTLE ROCK, Jan. 14.—(P)—Cold weather which was forecast by the weather bureau today will end a streak of rain and menacing rise of rivers over the state. Shuttle trains have been put to work on the Memphis to Little Rock highway which was ordered closed today by the State Highway department.

The road from Camden to Zandur, La., is still open, and light traffic is being moved over that section.

A 90-foot bridge at DesArc creek, 10 miles southwest of Searcy was washed down by high water today.

A bridge over Hurricane creek on highway 67 washed out also. Water over the highway in Independence county was reported today.

School of Missions To Start At Methodist Church

The church-wide school of Missions beginning at the First Methodist church Wednesday night at 7:15 will continue for six weeks meeting each Wednesday night. All of the departments of the church are cooperating in the enterprise. The advance sale of books indicates that the enrollment will be larger than any preceding year. The Board of stewards the Sunday school, the Woman's Missionary Society and the Epworth League are expected to have large representations in this school.

The text book is a new book, "The Church and the World Parish," by Dr. Elmer T. Clark. Those who have not yet secured books, can get them at the session Wednesday night at 25 cents per copy. Any one who may be interested in such a study are cordially invited to attend the lesson periods. Certificates of credit will be issued to those who attend all the sessions.

Publix Show Car Returns To City

On City's Streets Broadcasting Saenger Announcements.

The Publix Show Car which visited the city several months ago on a transcontinental tour returned today with a special program advertising attractions at the Publix-Saenger theatre here.

The car, an expensive machine of special make, is elaborately equipped with powerful broadcasting apparatus. It toured the city streets this morning playing popular melodies and broadcasting spoken announcements of coming pictures at the Saenger.

Washington Plans Box Supper Friday

A box supper will be held at Washington High School Friday night, under auspices of the Washington Parent-Teacher association. The publix is extended a cordial invitation to this community event.

Cotton Going!

The position of the south in the cotton industry is endangered and the future may see the king of the south's crops supplanted by another, warns Dr. Earl C. Case, associate professor of geography at the University of Cincinnati. He claims that international trade is influencing the development of cotton crops in other countries while that in America is commencing a decline.

Death Penalty Is Asked for Negroes

Three Accused in Foreman Ax Murders Face
Trial Wednesday.

ASHDOWN, Jan. 14.—Three lives for two will be demanded by Prosecuting Attorney John J. Dufaney, when John Green, Mac Brown and Bud Noland, all negroes, go on trial in Little River circuit court for the alleged slaying of Bud Morgan and Ed Dabney, white farmers, near Foreman on December 23.

Trials of Green and Brown will open Wednesday at Ashdown and Noland is scheduled to be tried Monday. All are charged with first degree murder, indictments against them being returned by the grand jury last week.

"I'll ask the chair for them all," the prosecutor said Monday.

Bodies of Morgan and Dabney were found in an alfalfa field nine miles southeast of Foreman. Both had been beaten to death with an ax. The negroes were arrested within a few hours by Sheriff J. G. Sanderson.

The sheriff declares that confessions were obtained from Green and Brown. Noland made no statement. Severance in trial of the cases was granted by the court.

The purported confession of Green, first of the negroes to be arrested, said the slayings occurred following purchase of liquor from one of the white men and were perpetrated with robbery as the motive.

Green is alleged to have said that Noland held up the two white men at the point to a gun while Brown killed them with an ax. He said the three of them robbed the bodies. The ax was found later by Sheriff Sanderson near the scene of the murders.

Morgan was the father of 10 children.

Herbert Martin Found Dead Today

Wife Believes He Fell
From Ninth-Story Window.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(P)—Herbert Spencer Martin, wealthy son-in-law of S. W. Straus, a large store owner here was found dead in the road today where it is believed he fell from the ninth story window of his apartment.

Mrs. Martin said today that she believed he fainted when he went to the window to seek fresh air. She said that Mr. Martin had been in ill health for some time, and that they had planned to leave for Europe in order for her husband to regain his health.

Martin was forty-seven years of age when the tragedy came last night.

Style Makers Seek To Stabilize Skirts

PARIS, Jan. 14.—(P)—Certain powerful dressmakers have a little part of Paris if their own. It aims, among other things, to arbitrate international misunderstandings like the proper length of skirts.

Long skirts have gone far enough in the opinion of most of the important dressmakers.

Evening dresses are down to the toes or actually touch the floor. But in the matter of how long skirts for street and sport wear should be, Paris maintains it has been misunderstood.

Most of the style makers protest against lengthening of street skirts. They want to see them left as they are right now in the leading establishments, eight to four inches below the knees. They agree that the average woman's daytime clothes must be practical as well as beautiful to succeed.

Memphis Highway Covered By Water

LITTLE ROCK, Jan. 14.—(P)—The Memphis to Little Rock highway was ordered closed today by the state highway department because of flood waters from the Cache river in the vicinity of Hazen.

Arrangements were being completed for a shuttle train operated by the Rock Island railroad to convey traffic through that region.

The highway to Texarkana from Little Rock was still open at noon today.

Mrs. Amanda Holt Is Dead at Mt. Ida

Government Offers Plans of Insurance To Eligible War Veterans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Watson B. Miller, chairman of the National Rehabilitation committee of the American Legion, with headquarters here, has called the attention of all Legionnaires to recent legislation of congress which permits the United States to grant, upon application to the Veterans' Bureau and payment of the initial premium, government life insurance in any multiple of $500 and not less than $1,000 nor more than $10,000, to any person of the World war who has heretofore applied for or been eligible to apply for government insurance, provided that such person is in good health and furnishes evidence satisfactory to the director to that effect.

The government, according to Miller, is offering seven plans of insurance to meet the needs of the veteran. The policies participate in dividends and the premiums are based on the net rate and do not include any charge to cover the cost of administration or the total permanent disability provisions. The insured may designate any person, firm, corporation or legal entity as the beneficiary, either individually or as trustee.

Representatives Meet With Farm Board Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(P)—Thirty representatives of the first Co-operative Association met today with the Farm Board to discuss organization of a National commodity organization.

The Board also discussed methods to which they expect to make effective the removing of surplus goods from the fresh vegetable market.

C. F. Erwin announced his candidacy today for alderman in Ward Two, subject to the action of the Democratic city primary February 25.

Mr. Erwin, who is associated with the Ivory Handle company has lived in Hope all his life, and is acquainted with many voters who will be interested to hear of his entry in the coming municipal campaign.

Woman Chauffeurs Grow To Popularity In London

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(P)—The latest fad adopted by London's haute monde is woman chauffeurs, complete in trim uniforms, powder puffs and spare parts.

The season's grandest social functions have had an ever increasing pleasant concomitant of feminine driver; parked across the street waiting for the conclusion of the festivities.

Employment bureaus say the demand for them is increasing daily, and that they have proven themselves possessed of two admirable qualities—punctuality and patience. They are paid the same wages as men.

Ambrosia Alford Will Go To The Chair Tomorrow

Unless Action By Governor Parnell Taken,
Slayer Will Die.

WIFE GETS LIFE TERM

All Preparations for Execution Made, Says Tod-hunter of State Pen.

LITTLE ROCK, Jan. 14.—(P)—Unless action by Governor Parnell with in the next twenty-four hours is taken, Ambrosia Alford, negro, will go to his death in the electric chair at the State Penitentiary tomorrow for the murder of Sam Katz, a Russian cobbler at Camden last August.

Mr. Todhunter, of the penitentiary, said today that all preparations had been completed for the execution at 7 a. m. tomorrow. Governor Parnell said today that he had received no request for clemency for the convicted negro, and his case was not appealed to the Supreme court.

The doomed negro's wife was also convicted along with him in connection with the same murder and was given life imprisonment.

One Romance Wrecked Each Hour In Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(P)—On the rocks of Chicago, one romance was wrecked, each hour during 1929 by divorce.

Busy statisticians, figuring up the year's business, discover that 9,669 divorces were granted and that wives scored highest, with a proportion of three to one.

Unfaithful wives, however, outnumbered unfaithful husbands. Only 15 per cent of the divorces were granted to native Americans, and 80 per cent of the wrecked romances had been productive of no children.

Bodenhamer Made Talk at Spa Today

American Legion and Civic Clubs of Six Counties Gather.

HOT SPRINGS, Jan. 14.—The American Legion's contribution to future America must be a cleaner, and more efficient type of manhood and womanhood, a higher sense of the individual obligations and the duties of citizenship, O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the Legion, said in an address here this evening at a joint meeting of The American Legion and civic clubs of six counties in the interest of Boy Scout work.

"A Nation is just as great as are its men. A Nation's future is just as promising as are its boys. The boys of today will be the men of tomorrow, and it is to them that we must hand the reins of Government and trust the destiny of our people. Accordingly, it behooves us to bend our every effort to the one purpose that the boys of today shall develop into the best possible men of tomorrow. It is our responsibility today to teach them the duties and obligations of citizenship."

J. W. Griffin Will Run for Sheriff

Well Known Cross Roads
Man Enters County Campaign.

Formal announcement of his candidacy for sheriff of Hempstead county, subject to the action of the Democratic county primary election next August 12, is made today by J. W. Griffin.

Mr. Griffin, a well known farmer, lives at Cross Roads, near Washington, in the northern end of the county. He was born in North Carolina in 1885. His family moved to this section when he was a boy and settled in the southern end of the county. Mr. Griffin has made his home in Hempstead county ever since, and is expected to stage a good race for the county's chief law enforcement officer.

Engineer

Miss Margaret Ingels, the first woman to receive recognition as an air conditioning engineer, attributes the distinction to the fact she was born in Kentucky. It's easier for a woman to do what she wants down there, she says. Miss Ingels, the first woman to take mechanical engineering at Kentucky University is now on the staff of a big engineering corporation at Newark, N. J.

Three Killed As Bandits Wreck Car

Bodies and $30,000 In Money Scattered Over Hillside.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 14.—(P)—Three men—a paymaster and two mine foremen—were blown to pieces last Monday when bandits wrecked an auxiliary car of the Glenn Alder Coal company, which was climbing Newport mountain to pay miners employed at number 20 tunnel, of the Truesdale colliery. Three other men were injured in the explosion.

The auxiliary car is said to have carried $30,000, which was blown to bits and scattered over the mountain-side by the explosion. It rocked the countryside for miles and although the scene is in an inaccessible locality, the explosion attracted hundreds of persons.

Earlier in the afternoon several thousand miners employed at the main colliery of the Truesdale workings had been paid off from the main car which was attached to a train on the railroad siding. When this work was completed the paymaster and his assistants boarded an auxiliary car to make the trip to the tunnel on a narrow gauge railroad.

Police could not locate the bandits.

The dead are: a Mr. Webb, the paymaster, Martin Burns and Shovlin, foreman.

Six Miners Killed In Gas Explosion

State Inspector Begins Investigation After Rescue Work.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 14.—(P)—Six men were killed late Monday in a gas explosion in the Peckers-Caballero Coal company mine at St. Raven, about 40 miles from here. At least one man was injured.

The dead: Arthur Lawley, Coleman Davis, Leonard Brantley and Rob Vernon, all white, and Bill Lanier, and Maurice Howard, were the victims. F. Cheyner seventh miner in the shaft at the time of the explosion was sent to a Birmingham hospital.

Physicians said Chesser was in a critical condition.

The explosion occurred in what is known as the eighth right seam 1039 feet below the entrance to the mine.

At least 14 other men and possibly a number of others had left the shaft an hour before the explosion occurred, officials said.

W. B. Hillhouse, state mine inspector, with a rescue party of more than a dozen men, were at the mine within two hours after the blast and immediately began an investigation of the accident.

Plane Wreckage Is Found Today

Believed To Be Monoplane Which Took Off
From Farmingdale.

HANSTON, Conn., Jan. 14.—(P)—The wreckage of a plane believed to be the Fairchild monoplane, which Samuel Marra and William Kirkpatrick, test pilots took off from Farmingdale, New York, last Friday was found here today.

One body was found under the plane while the other was located only a few feet away from the wreckage.

Worst Woman Is the Best Mother

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 14.—The worst woman in the world, in case of divorce, will make a better mother for the children than the best man in the world.

Lee Taylor, attorney, presented this argument for his client in a divorce suit after she had been painted in lurid colors by the attorney for her husband, seeking custody of two small children.

"Divorce granted. Custody of children granted to the mother," was Judge Kenneth Fore's dictum.

Held For Death of Aged Woman

Husband, 52, Neglected Wife, 77, Charge at Hot Springs.

HOT SPRINGS, Jan. 14.—(P)—Charges of cruelty and neglect against George Cooley, aged 52, were filed in city court here today in connection with the death of his wife, 77 years of age.

One witness accused Cooley of starving his wife to death. The court was dismissed, but will continue tomorrow after further investigation is made by officers.

Another witness this morning told the court that he had heard Cooley make a statement such as "I wish the old lady would hurry up and die so I could burn up this place and leave town." Neighbors said Cooley would leave her sick in bed at times and would be gone for several days, without food and water.

Child, Fishing In Bayou, Loses Life

Miller County Boy, Six,
Believed To Have Fallen
From Bridge.

TEXARKANA, Jan. 14.—The six-year-old son of William Gray, tenant farmer on the E. V. Olivett plantation 16 miles east on the Garland City highway, drowned in McKinney bayou near his home Friday afternoon, it was reported here today.

He was fishing in the bayou. When he did not come home at night the family thought he had gone to a neighbor's home. Saturday morning the body was found in the bayou near a bridge, from which evidently, he fell while fishing.

Thousand Bales Cotton Are Involved In Deal

PINE BLUFF, Jan. 14.—One of the major cotton deals of the season was consummated here when Harlow Sanders & Company sold for Jim G. Ford, prominent Sherrill planter, 1,000 bales for an approximate consideration of $100,000.

The cotton sold for Mr. Ford was produced in the Sherrill vicinity, and probably will be exported.

This is the second major cotton deal consummated by Harlow Sanders & Company this season. Several weeks ago the company sold 752 bales for W. I. Payne and others.

Roads Impassable In Northern Lonoke County

COBAT, Jan. 14.—The obsolete "Model T" is the only car that can travel into Cabot from any direction, except north and south on 67, which is graveled.

Pulaski county has graveled most of the roads this past year in the north end of the county, many of them leading toward Cabot, but the Lonoke county roads which connect these graveled roads are a sea of clay mud and impassable for any kind of modern vehicle.

Radio Programs Heard on Connecticut Telephone

AVON, Conn., Jan. 14.—Residents of Avon sometimes hear snatches of programs broadcast from the new station of WTIC here when they lift their telephone receivers. Telephone and radio experts are at loss to explain the mystery.

Murder Charges Are Dismissed

Criminal Docket Closed
In Nevada for Week
With Recess.

PRESCOTT, Jan. 14.—First degree murder charges against Albert Blankenship, Floyd Jackson and Fell Phillips held in connection with the death of P. C. Knott near Falcom in November, 1928, were dismissed Monday shortly before the Nevada county court recessed. The criminal docket will be continued until Monday, January 20.

Impassable condition of the roads since the continued rainfall prevented the appearance of many jurors and witnesses, and in the absence of Judge J. H. McCollum, G. R. Haynie, of Camden, dismissed the court after a short session Monday morning.

Will Voss and Jess Butler, charged with violation of the liquor law, were given each one year in the penitentiary.

Guie Harris, negro boy, was sentenced to one year in the reform school on a second larceny charge.

Sexes Are Segregated To Test School Theory

CEVELAND, Jan. 14.—(P)—Boys and girls at Benjamin Franklin school here have been separated to determine if segregating the sexes improves class work.

The experiment was conducted in the 6-B class. Some members were not segregated. Results will be compared when test papers are graded.

The boys look to the plan enthusiastically, said Miss Bessie Dalton, principal, adding that "the girls took it as a matter of course."

Negro Arrested In Marked Tree Case

Said To Have Many Clippings
Telling of Miss
Waughn's Murder.

PAHOKEE, Fla., Jan. 14.—(P)—George Scott, 39 negro, was held here today for Memphis (Tenn.) authorities in connection with the recent slaying of a white woman at Marked Tree, Ark.

Town Marshal Pote Harrison arrested the negro on a charge of stealing an automobile. When searching his prisoner he found a batch of newspaper clippings about the Marked Tree slaying. Harrison said the negro admitted he was "up North" about the time of the slaying, but denied he knew anything about it.

Harrison notified Memphis authorities today. He said he believed he had "the right man."

Scott claimed he lived in West Palm Beach.

American Bathing Suits Popular Among Italians

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—One piece bathing suits, American style, with gun-tan backs, short panties, and low cut necks, will be the style at fashionable Italian beaches next summer, according to the Commerce Department.

Consul Hugh Miller at Milan reported to the Department that American bathing suits came into vogue in Italy last year with a degree that took Italian manufacturers by surprise.

The telescope will be installed at the South African station of Harvard Kopje, near Bloemfontein.

Levee Dynamited And Waters Rush Over Farmlands

Bloodhounds Scour Mississippi for Tracks of Vandals

3 TOWNS ARE GONE

Workmen Called To Close
Up Hole In Protecting Wall.

MARKS, Miss., Jan. 14.—A huge gap was opened in the Marks bayou levee, two miles south of Vidalia, near here by a charge of dynamite set off last night by unidentified persons.

Bloodhounds from Clarksville this morning were put to work in an effort to capture the person or persons who did the dynamiting. Reports said today that several hundred acres of land was under water in three small towns near here.

The Cold Water river is at a stage today that is at a stage during the 1927 floods. All lowlands under water in urban country. Families are abandoning their homes and seeking higher ground. In many instances household goods are being taken to be ruined by water. In some cases, are being left to suffer from high waters.

A number of workmen have been ordered in an effort to close the gap by dynamite. Guards will be placed on the levees to prevent further attempts at dynamiting.

22 Persons Are Injured In Wreck

Thirteen Arkadelphia High School Students In Auto Collision

MALVERN, Ark., Jan. 14.—(P)—Twenty-two persons, including thirteen Arkadelphia High School students were injured when a school bus collided with an automobile here today. None of the persons were seriously injured.

Students living in Malvern were being brought by bus to Malvern to catch a train for Arkadelphia due to high waters on the highway from Malvern to Arkadelphia.

Girl's Many Hobbies Take Up Most of Her Home

CEVELAND, Jan. 14.—If Charlotte Marie Elgis, 18, sometimes called the "butterfly girl" of Cleveland airport doesn't watch out, her "hobbies" will soon crowd her out of house and home.

Miss Elgis, daughter of an airport collector, guards a $50,000 collection of 6,000 rare butterflies, tens of thousands of canaries in a colony she established, raises mushrooms, and keeps a gathering of coccinellids, moths, flies, beetles and other insects.

Miss Elgis' extensive hobbies overflow the attic, cellar and living rooms of her father's home here.

"I'm too interested to stop now," she says, "even if we have to add another story to the house."

Man Dies When Hit By Fast Passenger Train

LITTLE ROCK, Jan. 14.—(P)—A man believed to be J. A. Austin, aged about 60, of East St. Louis, Ill., was killed near Cypress Junction by a south bound Missouri Pacific passenger train today.

CITY

Apply the revenues of the municipal power plant to develop the industrial and social resources of Hope.
Move city pavement in 1930, and improved sanitary conditions in the alleys and business back-yards.
Support the Chamber of Commerce.

COUNTY

A county highway program providing for the construction of a minimum amount of all-weather road each year, to gradually reduce the dirt road mileage.
Political and economic support for every scientific agricultural program which offers practical benefits to Hempstead county's greatest industry.
Encourage farmer organizations, believing that co-operative effort is as practical in the country as it is in town.

STATE

Continued progress on the state highway program.
Feasible tax reform, and a more efficient government through the budget system of expenditures.
Free Arkansas from the cattle tick.

The Retail Credit Bureau

THE STAR'S announcement yesterday of its complimentary dinner to be given the merchants of Hope January 30, requires a little explanation of the Retail Credit Bureau, which it is hoped to organize at that time.

Some folks have the idea that a Credit Bureau means no good for the average man or woman who trades with local business houses. On the contrary, it means a very definite good. It is the means of identifying yourself in a new community, and of bringing to that community all the credit resources you enjoyed in your former home. Or, if a long-time resident, you should be benefitted by the simple economic law which every Credit Bureau applies—that you can't buy more than you are able to pay for.

A Credit Bureau, therefore, is of just as much protection to the buyer as the seller. The financial authorities give a rating to every man of considerable means. They write it down in a book that John Jones is worth one hundred thousand dollars. Why aren't the average man and woman entitled to the standardized listing recognized wherever they go?

The advantage to the merchant is more than the mere collection of accounts. Nowadays the competition between cities is so terrific that the merchant class must be pretty well organized within the city if it is to hold onto its trade territory. The exchange of ideas, the stopping of itinerant grafters, the expediting of any project that aids the merchant class—all these functions belong to the merchant's club, which we call the Credit Bureau.

Every city the size of Hope has one—and The Star, which on January 18 celebrates its first anniversary under the present owners, is taking this occasion to render what it believes to be a worth-while service not only for the business houses but every resident of our city.

Protecting the Children

R. B. STANFORD, district engineer of the State Highway Department, wrote an excellent editorial in that statement he gave to The Star yesterday suggesting that the rural schools look after the maintenance of the signs which warn motorists to slow down at a schoolhouse.

Schoolboys and others have been damaging the signs, Mr. Stanford says, and the state's maintenance men are finding difficulty in replacing them as fast as they are lost.

But who should value them more than the parents and school-teachers most interested in the little lives that these signs are aimed to protect? Mr. Stanford made a timely remark when he said that the school boards of all the counties in this highway district should instruct their teachers to have the students maintain the signs.

We read the Bible on week-days. We are taught loyalty to the flag in times of peace. Then why not this very first lesson in public safety—maintaining the signs which caution the cross-country motorist to slow down for a crowded schoolyard?

Hog Eye, Arkansas

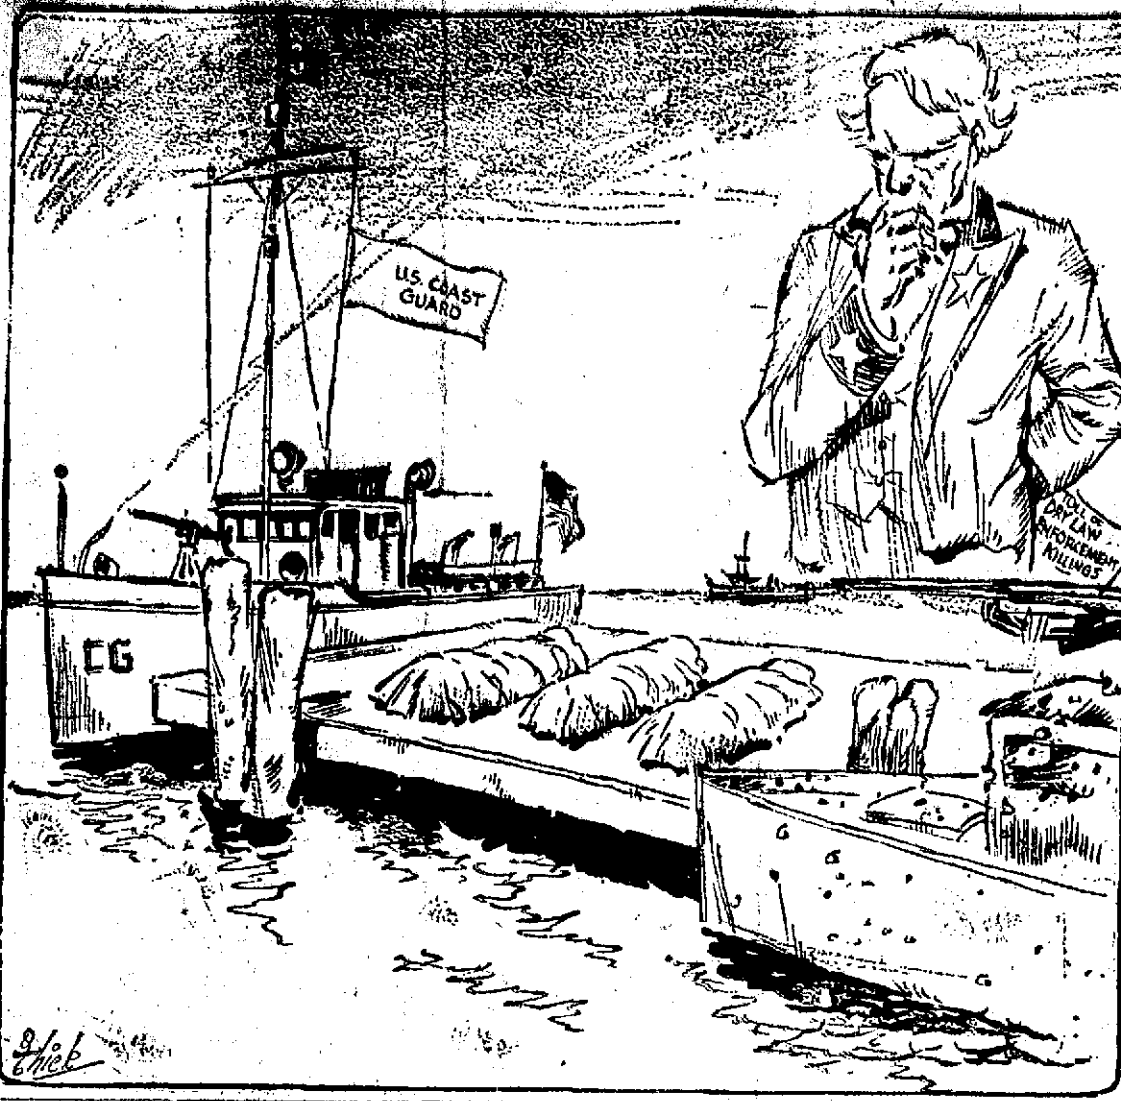

AN exchange suggests that the Arkansas Ozarks capitalize on picturesque names for communities in the hills, such as Lick Skillet, Lost Boy, Bug Tussle, Frog Level, Chicken Bristle, Greasy alley, Sassafras Pond and Seldom Rest. According to the Fayetteville Daily Leader, a noted writer recently remarked when she arrived in Fayetteville, "Please don't tell me how many miles of paved streets you have, or show me your fine buildings. We have paved streets and fine buildings in New York and Iowa. I want to see Hog Eye, town that Charles Morrow Wilson has mentioned in one of his charming stories of this fascinating picturesque Ozark backcountry. We are fed up on city stuff."

Our better Chamber of Commerce should make a note of that. Visitors are accustomed to expect paver streets and all the comforts of civilization. But they would look, for amusement's sake, upon the primitive "unspoiled" backwoods.

A backwoods country would appeal to some of our bored intellectuals as intriguing, different. These people may be content and healthy in their poverty-stricken cabins, lacking all knowledge of sanitation or proper behavior, but we don't believe that a little civilization would hurt them. Those who have once tasted the benefits of knowledge and enlightenment seldom choose to return to their former state.

The editor doubts the advisability of exploiting the Ozarks for possessing crude and backward people. Let us rather strive to bring the state up to a level with the best, and then we can in turn, look to some other "backward" state for our own divertimento.—Harrison Daily Times.

In the Name of the Law!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The visit of President-elect Pascual Ortiz Rubio demonstrated to the satisfaction of this government the strength and integrity of the present dominating political set-up in Mexico. The respect now held here for Rubio is second only to that felt for the former president and strong man of Mexico, Plutarco Calles.

Calles stands behind Rubio, who will carry out the Calles policies. He will be close at hand to take charge in case of an emergency, as he did when he was called to put down the military revolt led by General Escobar. Meanwhile, he is engaged with the especially important task of reorganizing the Mexican national railways.

Considering the importance of Calles in Mexico, the indignation of Secretary of State Stimson at the attempt of a Laredo official to arrest him for somebody's murder was not the least bit surprising. A more or less comparable situation in international affairs might have arisen had some minor official in a Central American republic attempted to pinch President-elect Hoover, when he was good-will-touring in these parts.

Rubio, the president-elect, is an engineer, sound and methodical, with constructive instincts. Although not a man of great force or brilliance, his ability and character have been recognized successively by the strong revolutionary leaders with whom he has served—Madero, Carranza, Obregon and Calles. The supposition is that, given domestic tranquility, he will make an excellent president for Mexico in this important period of her reconstruction.

With the support of "Iron Man" Calles, who is still the idol of the Mexican people, and of Secretary of War Amaro, who controls the army, such tranquility seems reasonably assured.

secured. The desire of this government for domestic peace in Mexico was indicated by the extent of the fuss made over Rubio during his visit, and especially by the unprecedented courtesy of President Hoover in twice calling on him at the Mexican embassy—gestures bound to have a moral effect both the Rio Grande.

Hoover, an engineer himself, has the utmost sympathy for the sort of a program which Rubio presumably will try to carry out. The labor and land reforms have been carried on through Mexico's turbulent period now, with the prospect of domestic peace and of continued friendly relations with the United States. It is supposed that Rubio will undertake especially to strengthen the national economic and political structure and extend programs for new roads and other constructive work. In his foreign relations he will play ball with this country, continuing the amiable era begun by Calles and Ambassador Morrow.

Reports from beyond the border indicate that the recent election has not bred any revolutionary movement worthy of the name and that Ortiz Rubio's term will be peaceful. The military revolutionists apparently have been gradually killed off and beaten down in the last few years.

The group headed by Calles and the late General Obregon, at enormous expenses and in a series of vigorous efforts, has crushed rebellions large and small until it appears that those "good old days" are about over.

Calles has the support of the army and, it would seem, the preponderant good will of the people. Along with the sympathy of the United States government and the practical certainty that this country would do what it could to contribute toward the defeat of any revol that encourage Mr. Vasconcelos, the defeated candidate.

Barbs

Man's origin is put back 50,000,000 years by Dr. Harry Fairfield Osborn. And doubtless there are times when all of us feel that old.

Jane Cowl says she believes the theatre is on its "last beloved legs." There seem to be quite a lot of them, however.

Herr Fritz von Opel has arrived in New York and says he will develop an airplane that will fly 2000 miles an hour. Even then the fellow who takes his family out for a Sunday drive won't be satisfied.

A Hollywood star was married in the conventional manner the other day, probably in the effort to get a little publicity.

The man whose five children were given drums and horns for Christmas must have a lot of fun reading what the nationalist government of China has to put up with.

TANLAC WINS!
Two More Victories Over Stubborn Stomach Trouble—Joyous News For Other Sufferers
SO HAPPY MUST TELL WHAT TANLAC DID FOR HER
FINALLY FINDS RIGHT THING IN TANLAC
First Bottle Proof Enough
FROM old and young they come, letters overflowing with words of praise and gratitude telling of wonderful, almost unbelievable relief they received from this matchless medicine. Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac. Take for instance, Mrs. Mary Bond who writes: "The moment food entered my stomach I would have such terrible pains that I could hardly move. Although I had doctored and taken all kinds of medicines I had never been able to find anything to help me until a boarder recommended Tanlac. I have now taken five bottles and am delighted with the way it has helped me. You can imagine how good I felt when I ate a nice big steak and didn't have a bit of trouble after having lived on dried toast for almost a year."
THOSE who have found only disappointment and failure in their search for health will do well to profit by the experience of this well-known man, Mr. Patrick O. Keefe. "For a number of years," says Mr. Keefe, "I suffered from stomach troubles. I could hardly eat anything without suffering gas and terrible bloating and I was always constipated. I heard about the benefits others derived from Tanlac. I admit I was skeptical for I had tried so many different medicines without results. Finally I was persuaded to try Tanlac and I will say the first bottle was proof enough for me. I have now taken several bottles and a wonderful change has come over me. My bowels are regular, digestive organs have been toned up, and I can eat three meals without gas, bloating or any misery." Tanlac is not only a wonderful stomach medicine but a great tonic.

Henry L. Erskine

The Erskine Award

On the heels of the disastrous defeat Pitt suffered at the hands of the Trojan on New Year's Day came the announcement that a jury of sports writers from every state in the country had chosen Notre Dame as the national championship team. The final score was: Notre Dame, 19; Pitt, 41; Purdue, 2; Albert Erskine, automobile, magazine, sponsored the award and W. O. McGeehan of the New York Herald-Tribune was chairman.

Three Cheers for Us

When the vote was cast, this is the way the writer voted: Notre Dame, first; Southern California, second; and Pittsburgh third. We have been wrong so often on football games that it is hard to understand how we stumbled onto the conclusion that Southern California would defeat Pittsburgh and therefore was a better team. On the first ballot cast, Southern California received only 21 votes while Pitt received 442, the votes on this ballot counting, 5 for first place; 3 for second, and 1 for third. The names of the three leading teams on this first ballot were submitted to the jury for the final ballot with the results mentioned above. Here is the result of that preliminary ballot: Notre Dame, 177; Pittsburgh, 442; Purdue, 210; St. Mary's, 48; Tulane, 22; Southern California, 21; Texas Christian, 10; Tennessee, 8; Yale, 2; Dartmouth, 2; North Carolina, 2; Colgate, 2; Utah, 1; Stanford, 1.

Vindications Pour In

With apologies to Art Shires for stealing his stuff, we wish to call attention to another judgment that the New Year's Day game at Kears Stadium, San Francisco, seemed to vindicate. That judgment was the selection of Frosty Peters as quarterback for the all Big Ten team chosen at the close of the Western Conference season. The writer achieved an embarrassed loneliness in picking Peters; none of the others who picked all stars from the Big Ten gave the Frosty one a look in. In the Shrine game, Frosty passed 31 yards to Boom for a touchdown, kicked an extra point and booted two goals from field. Besides, it was Frosty's generalship that made the Eastern team click. Three more cheers for us.

(Now that the congratulations have been duly received and placed on file we wish to go way out on a limb

DID YOU KNOW THAT...

After the battle with Stanford Johnny Murrell of the Army came off the field shaking his head and wondering why his legs had gone dead on him. "I am not tired," said Johnny. "I could go back and play another game. I'm not hurt, but there seems to be something wrong with my legs—they just won't get up and move." Maybe that's how that coast weather gets the eastern boys. But Pitt was stronger in the third period against Southern California than at any other time in the New Year's Day game. Art (Whispering) Shires admits he isn't hard for the ladies to look at, but adds, "You can't put Adonis features in the bank. They accept money deposits." Says Donnie Bush, manager of the Sox: "One thing is certain, Shires had better not take a punch at me. I have never gone down as yet and you can bet it won't be Shires who'll have the honor of dropping me in the dust at this stage of my career."

again with another of our dazzling forecasts. Here it is: Art Shires never will be world's heavyweight prize fighting champion. Hows that for sheer, unpremeditated daring?

"Hack" Arbused, to Ask Permission to Battle "Great One"

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—His pride nudged by some remarks made by Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires and his imagination troubled by things Promoter Jim Mullen keeps saying about $15,000 for a fight again have aroused Lewis (Hack) Wilson.

The Dempsey of the dugouts has made his reply to Shires' assertion at Boston last Friday night, that "I didn't want Spohrer, I wanted Wilson."

"I want Shires just twice as bad as he wants me," Wilson said in breaking his long silence at his home at Martinsburg, W. Va.

Added to what he considered a belittling remark by Shires, Wilson has had another offer from Promoter Mullen, asking him to meet Shires at White City arena—for $15,000.

Golf Course Added To Horse Race Track

COLLINSVILLE, Ill., Jan. 14.—(P)—Flying golf balls, as well as flying hoofs of horses, will be seen at the Fairmount Jockey club in its 1930 spring meeting.

A golf course is to be laid out adjoining the club house. Buildings are to be equipped for the use of golfing race fans and perhaps racing golf fans. The infield of the race course will become part of a fairway with the links extending along the back stretch.

Mixing the two sports is calculated to keep the club open the year round instead of merely during spring and fall racing meets.

Four Sooner Sport Captains Are Married

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 14.—(P)—Married men almost monopolize the roster of sport captains at the University of Oklahoma. Four leaders in major sports are married.

They are Parker Shelby, track captain, who won the high jump in last year's intercollegiate competition; Tom Churchill, all-conference and Olympic athlete who leads Sooners basketball; Lawrence Mantooth, wrestling captain, and Frank Crider, full-back captain of the Oklahoma football team.

rules promise to open a new era for the sport by separating amateur and professional participants.

Amateurs have found the going tough because they have been forced to compete with drivers backed by manufacturers.

The new rules, effective this winter include weight restrictions on racing hulls, revised regulations for motors, elimination of free-for-all contests, and establishment of a class for "family runabout" boats.

Air Baggage Placed At Thirty Pounds

Limit Placed On Weight of Passenger's Aerial Luggage.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Test made by the American Air Transport Association show that the average air traveler carries 28 pounds of clothing, linen, shoes and toilet articles into a plane. Based on this investigation, air passenger lines have set 30 pounds as the maximum weight of baggage which can be carried in planes without cost to passengers.

The decision to create a system of standard baggage weights for air travel was made by the conference of air passenger traffic men which meets regularly under the Association's auspices. The conference, in addition to discussing ways and means of increasing air passenger travel, is studying various phases of the industry with a view to creating a set of standards which will make the handling of passengers uniform on all of the country 30 passenger air lines.

$25,000 Agua Saliente Tourney Is Restricted To Field of 90

AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Mexico, Jan. 14.—(P)—Followers of the rubber trail of the winter money golf tournaments, will seek the ball-and-tee of the links here beginning today and ending the 17th, when they conclude their stand on Pacific Coast fairways with the Agua Caliente $25,000 open event.

Only the select of these wandering prospectors of the links will be permitted to enter the 72 holes a stake of $10,000 for the divotter turning in the best card.

The rigid qualifications will permit only 90 entrants, chosen from the leaders in three of the largest tournaments. Thirty high qualifiers in the national open event, and 22 qualifiers in the Professional Golfer's Association championship have already won the privilege of participating. The remainder will be chosen from the low scorers in the Los Angeles $10,000 open tournament the week before.

From the list of certain starters, Leo Diegel, home professional, is outstanding, due to his successful defense of the national P. G. A. title.

Scarcely less prominent is Horton Smith, youthful pro from the Missouri Ozarks, whose consistent victories last season and again this winter, have won for him the name of the nation's best money player.

Walter Hagen, who has been off his game during the past few tournaments, is expected to come up strong not to mention Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Craig Wood, Joe Turney, Tony Manero, Macdonald Smith and an array of others.

With visions of the sack of gold guiding these players, the competition will not want for keen play and surprising scores. The course, construction of which started a few months ago will open with the classic, giving every player an equal opportunity to test his prowess against lawning traps and treacherous greens.

A Favorite Kipling Story

IT IS recorded of this well-known British author that he once remonstrated with a friend for having sent him a publication from which the advertising pages had been cut. "Why, you have thrown away the most interesting section!" Mr. Kipling said.

Advertisements are more interesting today than at any time since the invention of movable type. Merchants and manufacturers realize that their announcements must compete for interest with the work of the high-priced authors and illustrators.

If you are not a regular reader of the advertisements in this paper, this is a good time to cultivate their acquaintance. You will find them interesting. You will find them friendly. They show you where to stop and take considerable strain off both shoe-leather and pocketbooks.

Read the advertisements because they are interesting. Believe them because they are true. Act upon their suggestions because it will pay you in many ways. Before you pick up the telephone, you usually consult the phone book. Before you start out to shop, consult the advertising columns of this paper. They will give you a direct connection with the merchandise you want.

Don't stop with reading the news and editorials. The advertising columns are equally important.

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Avoid the snags along the common-sense path to fitness and fashion. Don't let over-indulgence deprive you of the tantalizing contour of the modern figure. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

After a whitewashed courtship, JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing office, is married to ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive of the firm. Knight is a widower father of two children, TONY, his 18-year-old daughter, is in Europe, and JUNIOR, 16, is attending school.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

TRUE to his word, by a quarter of four o'clock that afternoon Arthur Knight reached home. He came into the living room in high spirits, rubbing his hands together to warm them, cheeks glowing from exposure to the cold wind, and strode over to the fireplace.

"Where's the getting cold outside," he told Judith. He said it as a man who is acclimated to long, cold winters and enjoys them. "Hope there isn't going to be a storm to tie up Tony's boat tomorrow morning. December's an awful time to cross the Atlantic," he added.

Judith dropped the notebook in which she had been scribbling and came over to her husband. Carelessly he slipped an arm about her, dropped a kiss on the radiant, glossy head and held her close in one of the silent little moments of tenderness she had learned to love. "Everything all right at the office?" she asked.

"Oh, yes! I caught Hunter just as I hoped to. Wants to have us out to dinner next week. His wife will be getting in touch with you, I guess. Yes, everything's going splendidly. That new elementary science series is going to. It's catching on like wildfire, they say. That's one time, my dear, your husband knew what he was talking about."

He went ahead, talking of contracts, and re-orders and new shipments.

"And what have you been doing all this long afternoon?" he finally paused to inquire.

"Oh, I've been so busy! I've seen the whole house, Arthur—every room. And I talked to Harriet and to Cora and went over all sorts of things with Mrs. Wheeler. My, but she's an efficient person!"

THEY talked then about Judith's allowance for the house. It was a liberal sum but the young wife was determined to be quite businesslike. Every bill and every household expense was to be paid from her own budget. It was this about which she had been scribbling in her notebook before Knight's arrival.

At seven o'clock that evening Judith Knight presided over dinner in her own home for the first time. She had made such eager plans for that dinner and entered the dining room with high color and a rapidly beating heart.

She took her seat at the head of the table and Knight drew out his chair opposite.

"Looking very pretty tonight, Judith."

Looking neither to left nor right, the girl marched past Judith and into the house.

Judith blushed.

"Thank you, kind husband," she said mischievously. She had hoped he would say that. Judith wore a frock of marine blue that crepe, the simplest of dinner gowns, with a crystal bow on the left shoulder and knots of velvet ribbon for its only additional trimming. The color was flattering and darkened the shade of her deep blue eyes.

Through misted lashes she glanced happily across at Knight. The mist signified happiness.

Very different, that table looked from its appearance at noon. A low flaring bowl of silver stood in the center and from it arose a mound of fire to pink rosebuds, clusters of forget-me-nots and almy maidenhair fern.

Close to the bowl were four low candlesticks, each bearing a lofty white taper. Their flames lit the room, casting into shadow the somber background but adding glints of fire to crystal glassware and shedding mellow warmth across the table.

Harriet began serving the meal. Judith Knight was proud of the menu, hoping Cora had made no mistakes. She had planned the meal with regard for Arthur's taste. She knew he liked to start dinner with an oyster cocktail and the blue points were properly laid. Then there was a consommé, roast beef not over-done but quite tender, vegetables, a salad and cheese served with Bar-le-Duc jelly and wafers.

They had coffee in the living room before the fireplace. Both of them sat on the big divan and watched the dancing firelight. They sat there a long while after Harriet had taken away the coffee tray.

"Ought to turn in early tonight," he said before long. "Tony's ship is supposed to dock at nine o'clock. We'll want to get there before that time."

JUDITH hesitated.

"I've been thinking about that, Arthur," she said. "Don't you think you'd better go alone to meet Tony? Of course you know I'd like to be there. But the child doesn't know—well, she's never even heard of me. It would be embarrassing to see and hear the news all at once."

"Well—if you're sure you'd rather have it that way—"

"I'm sure it's best."

"All right, dear. I think perhaps you're right."

What a jewel she was, Knight thought to himself. Always tactful. He had had his own misgivings on the subject of greeting Tony, then suddenly saying, "Here, daughter. Look, I've brought you a new mother."

They watched the leaping flames grow lower and lower. Then at 10 o'clock they mounted the stairway. The first day in the new home had been encouraging. Judith later, drifting to sleep, smiled dreamily and thought how foolish her tears had been.

It seemed no time at all before sunlight was pouring in at the windows. The girl rubbed her eyes and saw Arthur standing across the room in his dressing gown. He caught her eye.

"Hello, sleep-head," he greeted her. "Know what time it is?" "What time?" asked Judith. "Seven-thirty." "Isn't that early?" "Always get up at 7:30 when I'm in New York," Knight explained. "Gives me time for exercise. Trying to have breakfast up here or down stairs with me?"

"With you, of course," Judith told him. She pushed the covers down, stretched out one pink leg and then the other. Never so enthusiastic about an early breakfast as Judith Knight made no pretense of springing up to greet the dawn with animation.

She wanted to be up early this morning, though.

They had breakfast an hour later. Judith poured the coffee and from the kitchen came a wonderfully golden brown plate of fried cakes, proving that Cora knew her art. There were country sausages, crisp and well flavored. Judith liked a nourishing breakfast and did justice to this one.

"Wear your heavy coat," his wife told him. "It looks cold out."

"Guess you're glad you're staying inside," he chided.

Fifteen minutes later she stood in the doorway and saw him on his way to meet Tony. She watched until he had stepped into the car and then hurried upstairs.

So much to do. So much to do.

MRS. WHEELER had been given instructions to have Tony's room exactly as the girl liked it. The door stood open now. Judith paused to take a careful survey and note that the ruses had been filled. Then she hurried across the hall.

There were two hours at least to wait. She knew it would take that long before Knight and his daughter would be home. Judith went downstairs and planned the day's marketing with Mrs. Wheeler. She tried tactfully to make the older woman feel this consultation lent importance to the household management and in this she succeeded. That second morning the girl knew she had won Mrs. Wheeler's loyalty.

But planning menus and making shopping lists was not enough to fill the long interval of waiting. Judith made errands upstairs and downstairs, watching the clock.

Then she heard the car.

She rushed to the hallway. There they were. Standing beside her father, a diminutive figure in scarlet and gray, was Tony Knight. Her gray coat was thrown over her father's arm. Tony wore a suit of bright red worsted and a close-fitting scarlet beret was pulled down over her head. She wore high French heeled pumps and cowbunny hose. Tony Knight carried herself with an air. That was the secret of her attraction really. The saucy little nose might have been insignificant but for the keenly tilted of Tony's head. Her lips were too full and violently scarlet.

Yes, Tony Knight was pretty enough to win attention anywhere. She came up the walk ahead of Arthur, a tiny, ridiculous, preening figure, giving for all the world the impression that a retinue of slaves should follow.

"Tony—I'm so glad to meet you!" Judith's little cry held both anxiety and eagerness. With both hands outstretched she came forward.

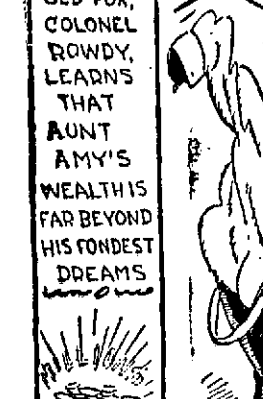

And Tony?

Looking neither to left nor right, the girl marched past Judith and into the house. It was as though she had not seen her.

Penney Sales Up By .17 Per Cent

National Chain Shows Increase Against December a Year Ago.

December sales of the J. C. Penney Company amounted to $23,535,291.74, an increase of $4,479,999.29 or 17.84 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

Cumulative gross sales for the year up to and including December 31st totaled $209,686,460.26 as compared with cumulative gross sales of $176,696,989.14 for 1929, showing an increase of $32,989,471.12 or 18.67 per cent.

In commenting on the monthly sales report, E. C. Sams, president of the company noted, "that with one exception in April 1929 the company has shown a consistent comparative monthly gain for 89 consecutive months. This we believe is a record to be proud of."

"The actual increase in the volume of sales all over the country shows that the purchasing power of the average person was not adversely affected by the recent Wall Street crash, and we are looking forward to a good year. Our 1930 plans include extensive improvements of our store buildings and the opening of new stores in many states of the Union."

COMMISSIONER'S SALE

Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the authority and directions contained in the decretal order of the Chancery Court of Hempstead County, made and entered on the 10th day of January, A. Hailing Indian "Independence"

"We are now in open conspiracy to free India!" Here is the stirring scene as thousands of native Indian students, massed in a public square at Lahore, cheered revolutionary speakers who declared for open revolt against British dominion. Banners were flaunted denouncing British rule and urging allegiance to Indian leaders. Soon afterward India was declared "a free and independent nation" by the Indian National Congress, meeting in Lahore, which adopted the Declaration of Independence formulated by Mahatma Gandhi, famed rebel chieftain and advocate of "passive resistance."

Wooden-Legged "Billy"

When you get Ernie Reese's "goat" you get one with a wooden leg. Four years ago Reese, an Omaha farmer, cut the leg off one of his goats while cutting hay. Instead of shooting the animal he doctored it and when the leg had healed, fashioned a wooden support for the animal. The goat is perfectly at home on his "peg-leg" now and wanders around contentedly consuming as many stray cans and clothes as it did before it lost its member.

security, bearing interest at the rate of 10 per cent per annum from date of sale until paid, and a lien being retained on the premises sold to secure the payment of the purchase money.

Another Leading Producer Joins Pyramid Life

Joe B. Thomasson says 100% Home Owned Company Most Valuable Asset

J.B. THOMASSON
HOPE, ARKANSAS

January 6, 1930.

Mr. Herbert L. Thomas, President, Pyramid Life Insurance Company, Little Rock, Arkansas.

Dear Mr. Thomas:

During my several years experience as an insurance representative, I have discussed life insurance with many hundred Arkansas men and women, representing all walks of life, from the executives of large institutions to those in humble circumstances.

In all this time, I have found that the one feature which appeals most to the prospect is the idea of developing Arkansas, by building HERE AT HOME strong financial houses, buying securities and supplies from local institutions and paying taxes and wages to improve conditions in our own state.

It is essential of course that the company be soundly financed, and well managed but the Arkansas company that gives the "something extra" is the one which deserves our people's business.

I have decided to join the Pyramid Life because it is the strongest insurance company that is 100% Home-Owned, because you have an attractive assortment of policies, and because you have shown a consistent record of progress which indicates a growing future.

You can count on me for substantial production in the New Year.

Sincerely yours,

Joe B. Thomasson

THE many friends of Joe B. Thomasson throughout Southwest Arkansas will be interested in the frank statement which he makes in the letter reproduced on the left. Mr. Thomasson has established himself as one of the state's outstanding life insurance men, and his enthusiasm for the Pyramid represents a similar attitude which is rapidly developing among hundreds of other leading citizens.

We have attractive agency openings for men of ability in several thriving towns. If you are interested in connecting yourself with a company building soundly for our state's future, get in touch with our Home office for further details. NOW.

"Let's get up a Newspaper ad"

This is number ten of a series of ads depicting the various processes of advertising Production. Number eleven will appear in an early issue. In ad No. 9 we placed our ad in its proper position in the page form.

"our Ad goes Home--"

THE fall opening announcement of the "Roseanne Dress Shoppe" has been printed and 2500 copies of it will be distributed throughout the Hope trading area. 1500 by mail and another 1000 by Hope Star courteous carrier boys.

The illustration we have had prepared has printed beautifully and is bound to attract the attention of our thousands of women readers.

Our advertisers, of course, practically eliminate the necessity of specially made drawings, by selecting their illustrations from our files of the Meyer Both General Newspaper Service.
